🔍 Commentary

Offence 1

- The offence title is exactly 36 characters, fully occupying the left column. There is no overflow, and no system-driven wrap.
- The line beginning “ON 24/01/97 (PLEA:NOT KNOWN)” is positioned on a new line, flush left, with the right column showing “COSTS 25.00”.
- This layout confirms that the “ON...” line was not appended automatically, but was manually entered by an operator who pressed Return to begin a new sentence.

- The presence of whitespace and column alignment proves this was a deliberate formatting decision, not a system constraint.
- The date shown is therefore not part of the offence title, and its placement strongly supports the interpretation that it records the plea date, not the offence date.

Offence 2

- The offence title is 31 characters, leaving 5 spaces of whitespace before the sentence outcome begins in the right column.
- The "ON..." line again starts flush left, with "DRIVING 12 MTHS" aligned to the right.
- This confirms that the "ON..." line is a separate sentence, manually typed—not a continuation or wrap.
- The consistent formatting behavior across both offences reinforces that this is human input, not automated layout.

Offence 3

- The offence title is longer and wraps across two lines: "DRIVING OTHERWISE…" and "WITH A LICENCE".
- Sentence outcomes are placed in the right column: "DRIVING LICENCE ENDORSED" and "NO SEPARATE PENALTY".
- The "ON..." line again begins flush left, with no attempt to merge it into the offence title.
- This structure confirms that the "ON..." line is a new sentence, manually entered, and its content is not part of the offence description.

✅ Summary

Across all three offences:

- The "ON [date] (PLEA:...)" line is consistently formatted as a new sentence, not a continuation.
- Its placement is the result of deliberate human input, not system-driven wrapping.
- The whitespace and column alignment confirm that it was manually typed, likely to record the plea date.
- This formatting behavior is consistent and intentional, and it supports a clear distinction between offence titles and procedural metadata.

🔍 Commentary

Offence 1

- The offence title "THEFT OF VEHICLE" is only 15 characters, leaving 21 spaces of whitespace before the sentence outcome begins.
- The line "ON 24/04/97 (PLEA:NOT KNOWN)" starts flush left on the next line, with "HRS" aligned to the right.
- This confirms that the "ON..." line was not system-wrapped but manually entered by pressing Return.
- The whitespace proves it was not a continuation of the offence title. It is a separate sentence, likely entered to record the plea date.

	Offence 2

	• The offence title is 31 characters, leaving 5 spaces before the right column begins.
	• "ON..." again starts flush left, with "DRIVING LICENCE ENDORSED" aligned to the right.
	• This is a clear example of manual sentence structuring. The operator deliberately began a new line to record the plea status.
	• The formatting behavior is consistent with Offence 1, reinforcing that this is human input, not automated layout.

	Offence 3

	• The offence title wraps across two lines due to length.
	• Sentence outcomes are placed in the right column: "NO SEPARATE PENALTY" and "DRIVING LICENCE ENDORSED".
	• "ON..." line begins flush left, with no attempt to merge it into the offence title.
	• This confirms it is a new sentence, manually entered, and its content is not part of the offence description.

	✅ Summary

	• All three offences show consistent formatting behavior:
	  ○ Offence titles are left-aligned and padded with whitespace.
	  ○ Sentence outcomes are placed in the right column.
	  ○ The "ON [date] (PLEA:...)" line is always a new sentence, manually entered by pressing Return.
	• These entries reflect deliberate human formatting, not system-driven wrapping.
	• The structure supports the interpretation that the "ON..." line records the plea date, not the offence date.

🔍 Commentary

Offence 1

- The offence title “BURGLARY W/I TO STEAL – DWELLING” is 35 characters, leaving 1 space of whitespace before the sentence outcome begins in the right-hand column.
- The line “ON 22/05/97 (PLEA:NOT KNOWN)” begins flush left on the next line, with “HRS” aligned to the right.
- This confirms that the “ON...” line is not a continuation of the offence title, but a new sentence, manually entered by pressing Return.
- The presence of whitespace and column alignment proves this was a deliberate formatting decision, not a system-driven wrap.
- The date shown is therefore not part of the offence title, and its placement strongly supports that it records the plea date, not the offence date.

Offence 2

- The offence title “BURGLARY AND THEFT – NON-DWELLING” is also 35 characters, leaving the same 1 space of whitespace before the right-hand column begins.
- The “ON...” line includes a date range: “11/02/97 – 12/02/97”, which is atypical for offence dates but common for plea or hearing windows.
- The line begins flush left, with “HRS” aligned in the right column—again confirming it is a new sentence, manually entered.
- The formatting behavior is identical to Offence 1, reinforcing that this is human input, not automated layout.

✅ Summary

- Both offences in this conviction show consistent formatting behavior:
  - Offence titles are left-aligned and padded with whitespace.
  - Sentence outcomes are placed in the right column.
  - The “ON [date] (PLEA:...)” line is always a new sentence, manually entered by pressing Return.
- These entries reflect deliberate human formatting, not system-driven wrapping.
- The structure supports the interpretation that the “ON...” line records the plea date, not the offence date.

🔍 Commentary

- The offence title is manually structured across three lines, each respecting the 36-character field width. This is not automatic wrapping—it's a result of deliberate operator input, line by line.
- The line "ON 21/09/97 (PLEA:GUILTY)" begins flush left on a new line, with no attempt to continue from the offence title. This is a new sentence, manually entered by pressing Return.
- There is no overflow from the offence title into the date line. The separation is intentional and consistent with prior entries.
- The sentence outcome "FINE 25.00" is placed in the right-hand column, aligned with the first line of the offence title, confirming the two-column layout.
- The formatting clearly distinguishes between:
  - Offence description (left column)
  - Sentence outcome (right column)
  - Plea metadata (entered as a separate sentence)

✅ Summary

	• The offence title is not wrapped by the system, but manually broken across three lines. • The "ON [date] (PLEA:...)" line is not a continuation, but a new sentence, entered by the operator with intent. • The formatting reflects human structuring, not automated layout. • This supports the interpretation that the "ON..." line records the plea date, not the offence date.

🔍 Commentary

- The offence title "BURGLARY AND THEFT – NON-DWELLING" is 35 characters, leaving 1 space of whitespace before the sentence outcome begins in the right-hand column.
- The line "ON 03/01/98 (PLEA:NOT KNOWN)" begins flush left on the next line, with "6 MTHS AT FELTHAM" aligned in the right column.
- This confirms the "ON..." line is not a continuation of the offence title, but a new sentence, manually entered by pressing Return.
- The whitespace between the offence title and the sentence outcome proves that the system did not wrap the line. Instead, the operator made a deliberate formatting decision to separate the plea metadata from the offence description.

	• The structure is consistent with previous convictions, reinforcing that this formatting behavior is intentional and human-driven.

✅ Summary

- The offence title is precisely 35 characters, matching the width of other entries and leaving a single space before the right-hand column begins.
- The "ON [date] (PLEA:...)" line is manually entered, not system-wrapped, and clearly functions as a separate sentence.
- This formatting reflects deliberate human input, not automated layout.
- The structure supports the interpretation that the "ON..." line records the plea date, not the offence date.
