The police just knocked on my front door. I never opened it and asked them through the door what they want. 2 police officers were at my front door and two more at the communal front door that I could not see but other persons did.

Time: 11:45 Am

Date: 23/08/2024

When I asked them why they were present they said just to talk to me I ask again why. He finally explained that he has been sent because my next-door neighbour has called them and said that I been banging on their front door. I told him and the others that this was a complete load of garbage as I had not done anything of the sort and for a fact it was the other way around but instead they bang on my walls and spit at my front door. He told me that it was Eddie who live in stands old house that was used to torture me while my house was used as a trap house to hold me illegally. I explained about me website and the evidence I have of police officers and the council as well as the neighbours, but he made out that I was crazy and would not be able to prove such things and therefore he did not have time to review my evidence.

He left with the others.

I telephoned 999 at first to put the records straight.

Hello Simon, I've taken advice on this and have been informed that the courts resulting team is responsible for updating the Police National Computer of convictions. Further to this you can access the UK Gov website to Dispute a mistake on your DBS certificate You can raise a dispute for a standard or enhanced check if you believe there's been a mistake in either: the records provided, like wrong or irrelevant information on convictions personal information, like your name There is a different process for disputing information on a basic check certificate. The police may ask for fingerprints to prove your identity if there's a mistake in the records. How to raise a dispute Report the mistake within 3 months of the date on the certificate. For mistakes in records Fill in the certificate dispute form. (This on the online uk gov website)
