Speaker 2 (Mr Cordell):
Oh...
There's not even a seal on this letter.
I can't get a straight answer out of this thing.
Pat and Steve are the people that Lemmy is helping.
He has cups of coffee with them in the cafeteria.
He knows they're part of his team in the ASB Team at Enfield Civic Centre, Block B.
Because he's trying to help them avoid disciplinary action, I ended up speaking to all of the directors there and recording all of the directors on a Dictaphone, just like I'm recording this conversation now.
I made a full website and a full report.

Speaker 1 (Court Staff):
You can't record our conversation.

Speaker 2 (Mr Cordell):
I'm allowed to record this conversation.
I'm allowed to record this conversation.

Speaker 1 (Court Staff):
No, you're not allowed without the court's permission.

Speaker 2 (Mr Cordell):
Yes, madam.
Will you listen to me?
I've already won this case.
I won it at hospital.
I'm allowed to take minutes of any meeting.
Will you listen to this for one second and get your laws right before I sue you as well?

Speaker 1 (Court Staff):
You can't sue me.

Speaker 2 (Mr Cordell):
I can.
I can because you are wrong.
I'll sue the company head that you represent.
You're part of a team.
You're sitting in the offices now with the people that have been setting me up.

Speaker 1 (Court Staff):
No, I don't accept those accusations.

Speaker 2 (Mr Cordell):
All of your offices have been stamping court paperwork.

Speaker 1 (Court Staff):
Do you agree with the claim?
You do need to get legal advice.

Speaker 2 (Mr Cordell):
I don't need legal advice.
I'm acting as a litigant.
I'm acting for myself.
I am my own solicitor.
I've requested a trial.
I've requested a jury.

Speaker 1 (Court Staff):
If you'd let me explain.
There is an order.
Maybe you need to speak to your mother.

Speaker 2 (Mr Cordell):
I don't have an order.
You shut your mouth for a second and listen.
I've got video evidence.
I've got video evidence right now of my front door being recorded.
I've got cameras in every single room of my house.
When that person came to my front door to serve that notice, I was in a police station on bail.
The person pushed the notice through my letterbox.
My mum came to my house while I was in the police station.
She took the paperwork off the floor.
She took the service papers off the floor and left my house.
I was still in the police station.
She left with the affidavit of service.
I've got video evidence right now showing my mum walking into my house while I wasn't there.
You're setting me up in that court.
You're not putting seals on your stamps.
The County Court has no seals on its paperwork and no signatures.
You're forging paperwork.
I've got the civil litigation book here, 2016-2017.
I've got the English legal process.
I've got police misconduct and court misconduct books here right now.
They show every form and how they're supposed to be completed.
I'm allowed to record.
We're having a meeting on the phone and I'm allowed to legally record you.
Under Morris v J...
