Who's speaking may I ask? Katie Walson speaking, can I help you?

Katie Walson, are you an administrator for Jeremy may I ask? It's Mr. Cordell speaking. I've been leaving messages asking for Jeremy to contact me back and he hasn't done so far.

So right, you've been leaving messages for Jeremy to call you back. I apologise for that.

Can I take the telephone number?

It's the number that I'm calling from. I keep changing it, sorry for the hassle, I'm not too sure of it.

Okay fine, can I say what the matter's regarding?

It's regarding corruption within the Civic Centre and how a malicious process, a malicious prosecution targeted malice of public office.

Targeted malice of public office, malicious process, malicious prosecution, fraud under the Company Act, and neglect and gross misconduct with criminal intentions of the employees and staff.

Okay, fine. If you'd like to leave that with me, I'll speak to Mr. Chambers and see Okay. Do you know what time he's going to be available at the desk, by any chance? Sorry? Is he at a meeting at the present time? Do you have his schedule on you?

Yes, he is. Do you know what time he'll be available roughly today? What would be advisable to call him back? Or tomorrow or the next time in his diary that would be advisable to call him back? I couldn't say, because he is back to back with meetings on both days. And even if it's Monday or if it's next year that he's got a time schedule, can you just tell me the next time he does not have an appointment that he would be roughly at his desk, can you book an appointment with me for him, please?

Yeah, I'll have to speak to him first. I'm taking the messages for him at the moment, but I'll have to speak to him and we'll come back to you. Okay? Okay, thank you. Thank you, bye. Bye.
