I've just had a few general questions. Are you still there, madam? Sorry, I couldn't hear you very well. Can you repeat that again for me? Yeah, sorry, I was in a bad place with bad reception.

(0:09 - 0:28)

Basically, this is City London 4, is that correct? City Hall, that's right, yes. I'm trying to get through. When Boris was the Mayor of London in 2015, he allowed information to be published about my person causing a breach of my human rights.

(0:28 - 0:54)

I'm interested in making a claim for that reason, and I'd like to do it externally, not internally in-house. I would like to request the insurance policy for the London Mayor for public liability insurance, who he was actually insured with at the time. And I was wondering if you could put me through to claims or to insurance, please, or somebody that can help me deal with this issue, maybe a receiver they might be called.

(0:55 - 1:10)

I'm just trying to think what section we deal with that. We haven't got a receiver section. A receiver is basically, you'd get the receiver of the Metropolitan Police, which would mean the developer of resources, or the developer of finances, and so forth.

(1:10 - 1:16)

Now they're called... I was actually dealt with by Transport for London. The Mayor of London. So who actually holds... Transport for London.

(1:16 - 1:30)

Who actually has the insurance? That's where all our account enquiries and finance go. So who actually deals with the insurance for public liability? You would have employer's liability taken out for you now by somebody under the Constitution. I wonder if it's the Human Resources, I'm not sure.

(1:32 - 1:38)

Hold on, let me just see. Let me just try and see if I can put you through to Human Resources. Just bear with me.

(1:38 - 2:07)

Okay. Can I ask a question? You might not know, it doesn't matter. It'd be silly to ask.

(2:34 - 2:53)

I don't know why it's just gone dead. I think we'll have to try and call them back again.
