Hello, I've got a question to ask. If I'm being held illegally in a room and I can't leave against my own free will and I'm not doing nothing wrong, is that an emergency issue? Where are you calling from? I'm being held in a room and illegally and... Is it in a hospital? No, not in a hospital, no. I'm being held... But where? I'm being held by people in a room, yeah, illegally... Yeah, I do not want to be held in this room, and I believe that it's an EGM problem. It's an emergency general meeting problem. Watch your telephone number, please.

Would you class being held in a room illegally?

It depends where you are, sir. Are you in a cell? No I'm not sectioned, I'm not sectioned, there's nothing wrong with me, there's completely... I'm fully...

Yeah, like you're recording under NSIR under the Home Office Counting Rules and under Regulations 2000. You're acting under the Police Reforms Act 1961, which is the first police officer who created a police constitution. Now a load of police officers under the fraudulent companies act have, in the fair processing of processing paperwork and processing things correctly have falsified the paperwork. They got into 1996, yeah, the computers come into place, the investigation powers of 2000 come into place and they create MG1, MG2, MG3. I'm explaining to you that a load of police officers... I'm explaining to you that a load of police officers... Where are you? I'm... I'm... Listen, can I explain this to you? Listen, I've been held in a room... Yeah, against my free will because a load of police officers, a load of police officers got a load of MG11 police forms, which are witness forms for members of the public, yeah, and they forged the witness forms, they filled the forms in and there's no signatures at the bottom, there's no signatures at the bottom, there's no signatures at the bottom of them, which means... Yeah, there's no signatures, there's no first hand, there's no first, I spoke to yourselves and I've got about seven letters here now. I'm going to read one of them out to yourself. No, I don't need you to do that. Yes you should, yes you should, yes you should, yes you should. My life is in danger. Our investigation into your complaint has been suspended. I'm recording this conversation, Lin, yeah? And I've recorded multiple... I've recorded multiple conversations, Lin. Lin, and I... Lin, Lin, Lin. I'm suing the company head director, yeah? No, no, no, no. I'm trying to explain to you. I've been held in 109 Burncroft Avenue. Yeah, I phoned up the police in 2014. I explained to them on the phone that what a lady like yourself, and she's promised me, and I've got the recordings, she promised me that the second that she's going to put a file in, she put a complaint in corrupt practice. I've got the form here against a Steve Ellsmore for a multitude of cads. I'll read the number out to you in the paperwork here. Where is 101 Burncroft? 109 Burncroft Avenue is Edmonton and it is Enfield.

Yeah, I got accused of handling stolen goods of a burglary case, yes? I won the burglary case after a year of being on a stringent balcony because I had to sign on at the police station at 4 o'clock every day and I had to be in my house by 8 o'clock curfew. No, no, no. What the fact is now is that a load of police officers went to court and 15 of them, Sergeant Haymill, Inspector Jane Johnson, all the sergeants, I've got them all here in their signatures at the bottom of a folder and they forged the paperwork in that folder. Yeah, all the timestamps to your...
