Here's the transcript split into Speaker 1 (Call Handler) and Speaker 2 (Mr Cordell/Paul Cordell), with minor transcription corrections to make it readable while keeping the original wording and meaning.

Speaker 2 (Mr Cordell):
Can I speak to the police please?

Speaker 1 (Call Handler):
Police, thank you.
Due to an exceptional demand...

Speaker 2 (Mr Cordell):
I'm trying to hang a BT up.
Hello.
I just contacted yourselves in regard to my safety and wellbeing inside of my own home while I'm illegally being detained.
No person can call an official EGM meeting in regard to getting it rectified.
The people are still attacking me.
My issue is that I've just been put on bail conditions by yourselves, yet again saying that I'm not allowed to contact these people or act in self-defence.
Can I ask you a question?

Speaker 1:
Yes, of course you can.

Speaker 2 (Mr Cordell):
Can I ask you a question?

Speaker 1:
Yeah, of course.

109 Brancroft Avenue, my private home...

Speaker 1:
Okay, hold on sir, hold on.
Give me a moment, okay?
And what's your name please?

Speaker 2 (Mr Cordell):
My name is Mr Simon Cordell.
Paul Cordell.
I'm just about to have my name changed.

Speaker 1:
Simon or Paul, which one is it?

Speaker 2 (Mr Cordell):
I'm going by Paul Cordell right now.
I'm having my name changed by deed poll.
I've changed it with my bank and everything already.
Simon's dead.
I changed it with Barclays Bank.
I'm going by my Christian name, Paul.

Speaker 1:
Okay.
So what has happened?

Speaker 2 (Mr Cordell):
I'm being assaulted inside my house again because the government has used my personal data and lied and said that I've got a sexual disease.
They've put me in danger because they wanted to cover up a load of signatures that were missing and a load of timestamps that are wrong in your call centre.

Speaker 1:
Hold on, hold on, hold on one moment.
I have to type all of this, so bear with me.

Speaker 2 (Mr Cordell):
Okay.
By my neighbours in 117.
They're taking away my right to life.

Speaker 1:
Hold on. Hold on.
Give me a second.

Speaker 2 (Mr Cordell):
Okay, perfect.
I'm mentally being assaulted by my neighbours in 117.
They're taking away my right to life and Protocol 1.2 of my human rights, the right to enjoyment and peaceful use of my flat.
I've asked for the police to protect me.
I've also asked for the local council to protect me alongside the neighbourhood watch teams.
I've phoned yourselves because you are the only point of entry I have into any government system right now.
I've been told that I'm not allowed to contact Enfield Council until 2019.
I'm not allowed to enter the Civic Centre or talk to them, even though they're my leasehold providers.
I've got an injunction order which isn't actually on me because I wasn't served in accordance with the law.

I was in police custody and the custody officer allowed a third-party company to come in and try to serve me with an injunction order.
I requested the video footage from Wood Green Police Station proving this happened.
It says I should have been served at my front door.
When I went to the first preliminary hearing regarding these matters, the judge said I've got to go back to court on the 5th next month.
He said he's going to wait for the affidavit from Enfield Council and confirm whether I was served in accordance with the law.

Speaker 1:
Okay.
Paul.
Paul.

Speaker 2 (Mr Cordell):
Yes?

Speaker 1:
You're through to the police and you're on a 999 call.

Speaker 2 (Mr Cordell):
Yes, that's correct.
I would like the Mathigalen family arrested for attempted manslaughter and criminal intent to affect my way of life.
I would like the family and the leaseholder, Mr Markandu Mathigalen...

Speaker 1:
Okay.
I apologise.

Speaker 2 (Mr Cordell):
Mr Markandu Mathigalen.
M-A-R-K-A-N-D-U.
Markandu Mathigalen.
That's his first name and surname.
For attempted manslaughter under the Criminal Attempts Act.

Speaker 1:
The attempted manslaughter, yes.
And upon whom?

Speaker 2 (Mr Cordell):
Against myself.
It's been 1,568 days that they've continued to have this effect on my life.
I've made over 200 phone calls regarding my neighbours to yourselves since 2014.
This is the 207th phone call.

Speaker 1:
To what number?

Speaker 2 (Mr Cordell):
To 999.
I've made over 200 calls.
My mother put an FOI request in and we got all the CAD records showing how many calls I've made.
I'm waiting for the audio recordings and call recordings from the call centre.
It was agreed there were over 200 phone calls regarding my neighbours.

Speaker 1:
Right.
Listen to me, okay?

Speaker 2 (Mr Cordell):
Can I continue please?
They are giving me heart palpitations in my house.
If I go into my front room they follow me into my front room and bang above my head.
I've got loads of recordings.
You can hear how loud the banging is.
I've got over 100 recordings.
If I go into my bathroom or bedroom they run above me and bang.
If I go into my kitchen they do exactly the same.
The last recording I got was on the 3rd of this year.
It went on for over two hours.
They were chasing me around my house, banging on the walls throughout the flat.
You can't get away from what they're doing.
I've never done anything wrong to anybody.
I built a brand-new charity.
I was writing a model constitution for people.
They just didn't like me because of my ethnicity.
The police wrote everywhere that I'm a black boy on the block.
Yes, madam.
Yes, madam.
I accept that.
What grade are you grading this conversation at, considering my life is in immediate danger?

Speaker 1:
Right.
I'm not grading this call as anything at this moment.
I've just logged your call.

Speaker 2 (Mr Cordell):
Can I take the CAD number please?

Speaker 1:
1.
18th of the 4th.

Speaker 2 (Mr Cordell):
Alright.
Thank you madam.

Speaker 1:
Okay.
You have a good day, Paul.

Speaker 2 (Mr Cordell):
You too.
How can I have a good day?
I'm continuously getting assaulted and they can hear me talking to you.
The second I put the phone down they know you're not going to come and they start banging even more.
Then I phone you back saying they know you're not going to come here and protect me.

Speaker 1:
Paul.

Speaker 2 (Mr Cordell):
Yes.

Speaker 1:
As I said to you, I cannot continuously keep letting you talk.

Speaker 2 (Mr Cordell):
But I will have to phone again if they assault me again.

Speaker 1:
I'm going to end the call, okay?

Speaker 2 (Mr Cordell):
Can I ask a question?
If they assault me again and I record it on camera evidence...

Speaker 1:
End the call please.

Speaker 2 (Mr Cordell):
I'm updating all these phone calls to my website.
Do you want my website link?

Do you want to see the damage that's been caused to my life?
The missing signatures and everything everyone is saying?
You're the only people I'm allowed to contact.
I want to go upstairs in self-defence right now.
But you've put bail conditions on me saying I'm not allowed upstairs.
So you've stopped me defending myself.
The company you represent told me I'm not allowed upstairs or I could go to prison.
I've made over 200 phone calls telling you I've not gone upstairs.
I know there's a baby upstairs but you're still letting them attack me.
You won't arrest them.
You won't take one statement from me.
Yet if they phone you about car tyres you take statements and go for possession of my flat.
On top of the injunction order I've had five injunction orders because of this.
Okay.
You have a good day.
I don't mean to be disrespectful.
I accept that.
I accept that.
I accept that.
I accept ten minutes is worth one person's life.
Do you get paid anyway?
Is that all my life is worth?
Ten minutes?
Is that all my life is worth to you?
