HELPFUL INFORMATION

CDER collects debt and enforces court orders on behalf of local authorities and private businesses. Where possible, we try to get payment by sending letters and making phone calls. This is so that debt can be paid without the extra expense of enforcement action.

The legal enforcement process operates a compliance stage to provide an opportunity to pay your outstanding amount prior to a visit to your premises by an Enforcement Agent.

This stage also provides opportunity to seek advice on how to pay what you owe. There are a number of sources of free advice if you are experiencing difficulty in managing your finances.

When we are unable to collect payment by letter or phone, we send an Enforcement Agent to take control of goods. Enforcement Agents are certificated by a county court judge in accordance with The Certification of Enforcement Agents Regulations 2014. Enforcement Agents can take control of goods for outstanding payment of council tax, business rates, parking tickets and many other debts. The Enforcement Agent may take control of goods any day of the week after 6am and before 9pm or during business operating hours. The Enforcement Agent may take control of goods anywhere in England and Wales, on a highway or premises where there is power to enter (usual place of residence). The Enforcement Agent can't take control of goods which are necessary to satisfy basic domestic needs or which are required for a persons business, trade, education (to an aggregate value of £1350). CDER operates to the highest standards. If you are dissatisfied with enforcement action, you may complain. We take all complaints seriously as they are a valuable source of feedback from the communities we serve and help us improve our service.
